DOWLING - MEYERS FIGHT.

Dowling Men Won In County and District Meetings.

BUT THE STRUGGLE IS NOT OVER.

Likely to Be More Warring In the Convention Proper-Meyers Selected as a Member of the Credentials Committee. Resolver and Knife Drawn at Third District Meeting-Committee on Resolutions - New State Central Committee. A Denial by McLean.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 24.—The Democratic state convention is in session here today.

The preliminary meetings by counties and congressional districts yesterday and last night of the delegates indicated that the Dowling men by a close margin defeated the Allen O. Meyers regime. The latter, however, will likely continue the fight in the convention. At the meeting of the Third district delegation last evening a revolver was drawn by one delegate and a knife by another. In this district are the delegates from Montgomery and Butler counties, both of which are contested. Ex-Congressman Sorg is from Butler county and ex-Collector Dowling from Montgomery county. Sorg is considered the conservative candidate for governor next year and Dowling is his manager. At the meeting of the committee on credentials last night there was bad blood from the start. Allen O. Meyers was selected as a member of this committee, and the Dowling men were weaker on this committee than on other committees.

SAY FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Chief of Police Lees had made no arrests yesterday in the Dunning poisoning case, though he had been in communication with the Delaware authorities and may make some move in the matter at any moment. Chief Lees intimated that he had some very important information bearing upon the case, but will not make public the details known by his

Mrs. Botkin claims to have received several threatening letters in the past few days from anonymous writers. She seems much disturbed over the attempts made to connect her with the poisoning of Mrs. Dunning, and says these attempts are unjust and outrageous.

Navai Board to Meet Today to Decide What to Do With Extra

Washington, Aug. 24.—The disposal of the large fleet of auxiliary cruisers naval craft, about 100 in all, including a number of large ocean-going merchantmen, which have been improvised into cruisers, colliers, etc., will be taken ap at the navy department today by a special board of naval officers, being Captain Ctark of the battleship Oregon, who may not be present as he is on leave, Captain Higginson of the battleship Massachusetts, Captain Chadwick of the cruiser New York, Civil Engineer Andrage, who inspected the ships at Santiago, and Naval Constructor Tawresey.

The fleet includes 38 cruisers and large yachts. This fleet cost many millions of dollars.

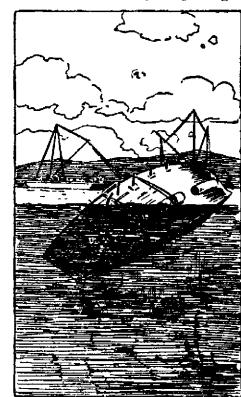

The board will determine what vessels should be retained, as many of those on hand are serviceable as colliers, supply, ambulance or distilling ships. Those to be sold will be appraised, and the navy department will then advertise for bids for the ships not wanted.

There is some curiosity as to the amounts which will be offered for these vessels. When they were bought the urgent needs of the government comperied the payment of prices which, in so ne cases, were regarded as "fancy." Doubts are expressed in naval circles whether these same "fancy" prices will prevail when the offers to the government are made.

Catholics Say the Church Question Tr Porto Rico, Cuba, Will Be Easily Settled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Among those occupying high official position with the (atholic church it is said the amalgamation of the Catholic committees of Cuba, Porto Rico and other Spanish and dysentery; Sergeant Thomas Maher, colonies presents no serious difficulties. The first requisite, it is pointed out, is to terminate the concordat by which Span and the vatican jointly conduct the administration of these colonies. Under the concordat the Spanish government names the bishops to be appointed in the Spanish colonies, and these names being sent to Rome, are formally appointed by the pontiff. The bishops will likely be left in their places, and the change of system will be inaugurated gradually as those now in service drop off and are succeeded. The new system will probably be that under which bishops are chosen in the United States, there being no state participation, but merely a choice by the established Catholic authorities wherein a change occurs, this choice being referred to Rome for formal appointment.

SCHOOL QUESTION.

Statement Made by a Bishop Returned From Rome to German Catholic Convention.

Milwaukee, Aug. 24. - The German Roman Cathoric societies convention met yesterday. The services at the formal opening of the German American Catholic day in St. Mary's church were somewhat extended.

Bishop Messmer, who has just returned from his pilgrimage to Rome. spoke concerning the school question.

Not only did Bishop Messmer take a radically opposite stand to Archbishop Ireland with reference to the schools, but he told the members of the societies that the propaganda viewed with regret the attitude of many of the En. glish speaking Catholics in this country on the school question while the po-sition of German Catholics met with approval, and it was to be regretted that so many Catholics were sending their children to the public schools in place of the parochial schools. Referring to the money that had been contributed to the establishment of a German chair in the Washington university, Bishop Messmer recommended that the fund be turned over to the Oatholic seminary at St. Francis.

The most important feature of yesterday's program was the big parade, participated in by all the uniform rank and subordinate lodges. Careful estimates place the number of men in line at 18,000, of which 10,000 were members of the uniform rank, led by Major General Carnahan. Governor Mount rode a horse in the parade. Next to the parade, the most important event yesterday was the convening of the supreme lodge in the house of representatives. Welcoming addresses were made by Governor Mount and Mayor Taggart, and Supreme Chancellor Colgrove also spoke on behalf of the lodge. In the executive session, Supreme Keeper of Records and Seals R. L. C.

Feeding the Starving in Cuba.

Washington, Aug. 24.—[By Associated Press]—The war department is considering plans for feeding the people of Cuba who may be found in a starving condition when the Spanish evacuate. Very little information is yet at hand regarding the condition of the people, but from what was known of them before hostilities began and the fact that very little opportunity has been afforded them since to secure food, it is believed that thousands must be destitute. The poor people, known at the beginning of the war as reconcentrados, may have perished, but the pacificos and others who were not a part of the Spanish army are believed by officials here to be in a precarious condition. The details of the plan for furnishing food have not been matured, but the distribution will be under the direction of army officers. It will not be entrusted to local chiefs of municipalities. The war department officials intend that the food issued will go to those who are real needy and shall not be swallowed up by a few greedy ones. The quartermasters' and commissary departments of the army are ready to furnish and transport supplies as soon as orders are issued. Several transports will be held in readiness, and the stores will be ready to be placed on board as soon as it is determined that they shall be sent.

Have the Greatest Confidence in Dewey.

Manila, Aug. 24.—[By Associated Press]—The rumors of troubles between the natives and the Americans are for the most part unfounded. The fact is that the insurgents have been unwilling to disarm until assured of the permanence of American protection. The distrust felt as to the Spanish bank, which originated in rumors as to an excessive note issue to aid the Spanish authorities, led to a run on the institution, but the British banking houses came to its assistance and averted a failure. Business is now booming. The obstructions in the "Santary report, Aug. 23: Total river Pasig, which flows through the town, have been removed, and the water works have resumed operations.

The Associated Press learned yesterday that the Philippine junta surgeon Second Massachusetts volun in London received a dispatch from Manila Sunday announcing that matters there are rapidly quieting down, and that the friction between Aguinaldo and the Americans is disappearing. According to the junta's advices, the insurgents for a time regarded General Merritt and General Anderson as martinets, and feared they would adopt harsh methods, like the Spaniards, toward the Philippinos, but the insurgents from the first have had the greatest confidence in Admiral Dewey, whom they regard as a sort of father and the most important American at Manila. The junta is satisfied that all friction will soon disappear and that there will be no trouble from the insurgents if the Americans decided to retain the Philippines. According to a worthy Philippino, now in London, the Philippinos in Europe are all well-to-do people. Hitherto they have held aloof from the insurgents, but they now realize that their interests demand action and they are about to form a committee to open negotiations with the junta here. They are all in favor of having the archipelago retained by the United States. So strong is their conviction of the desirability of this course that they had contemplated approaching the British foreign office to invite Great Britain to intervene, and in any event to prevent the islands being returned to the control of Spain. They decided, however, to wait American action.

To Build Twenty-eight War Vessels.

Washington, Aug. 24.-[By Associated Press]-The navy department at noon yesterday opened bids for the construction of sixteen torpedo boat destroyers and twelve torpedo boats, the cost of the twenty-eight vessels to aggregate $6,900,000. These twenty-eight destroyers and torpedo boats constitute the largest single addition ever made to the navy. The destroyers are to be completed within eighteen months, and the torpedo boats in twelve months. According to the requirements of the department the destroyers are to have a guaranteed speed of twenty-eight knots and the torpedo boats twenty-six knots. The destroyers are to be about 400 tons and are to cost not more than $295,000 each, while the torpedo boats are to be about 150 tons and to cost not more than $170,000 each. The torpedo boats are of much the same design, but will be smaller than the destroyers. Their coal capacity will be forty tons, against one hundred tons for the destroyers, and their berthing space for twenty-six men and three officers. The battery will be composed of three rapid firing guns. There will be mounted on deck three fifteen-foot torpedo tubes, with torpedoes,

TOLEDO'S FINE CATHEDRAL

An American's Visit to Spain's Famous Structure.

To the right, beyond and beneath us, rises the great basilica, the Christian shrine built upon the foundations of many a strange temple, and upon corner stones that were consecrated to long-forgotten creeds. It rises out of the low-lying swamp land, and rears its lofty spire far above the citadel that crowns the rock-bound height. But it is incomplete and far from perfect. After all the centuries that have passed over it and all the generations of men who have in their little day labored upon it we must accept it as a true picture of human aspiration and endeavor, always striving and head and body were a struggling and never attaining. The first cathedral church of St. Mary erected here of which record has reanned us was conserrated toward the close of the sixth century, but even the careless and superficial excavations which have been made beneath the cathedral in recent years disclose the fact that here there was a place of praver long before the Christian era dawned. The present edifice was completed in the year of the discovery of America. The first view of the bold outlines of the mighty pile is unfortunately impaired and interrupted by the surrounding buildings. But if we patch together laboriously the partial views and glimpses we obtain we shall see that, unlike any other Spanish shrine. the Toledo cathedral equals if it does not surpass, in majesty of construction and impressiveness the greatest cathedral churches of France.

About the high altar are grouped according to dynasties, the alabaster tombs of the old kings and the new kings and the heads of pulssant houses of which we have never heard, and mighty warriors whose deeds have escaped the recognition of his-Here they sleep in the ourts tory of peace which once rang with the clatter of their trailing swords. Here they came with their great banners, here our lady blessed them with the blessing of her smile, and here they brought back upon their shields those who fell doing her bidding, to sleep forever near her shrine and within the sweep of her pitying eyes. The cathedral is at once the Valhalla and the Westminster of Spain. Here all her glories are recorded and here each generation as it passed from the stage stored its noblest dead.

I remember with mixed feeelings the two days I spent here, escorted by the seven canons, each with his chain of clanging keys, who opened to me the most secret treasures of the shrines. This favor I owe to the courteous considerataion of the cardinal. But I remember with still greater pleasure the days that followed, when, safe from the courtesy of my cicerone, in the disguise of capa and straw sandals, I wandererd, undisturbed, and unenlightened, through the sacred precincts. One evening as I sat and listened to the vesper song an open door in a stone pier which I had never seen before caught my eye. I entered, and, ascending a spiral stairway of stone, across which the cobwebs were drawn as thick and strong as cords, came out of the darkness at last into the light of a little chapel all amber and alabaster. I touched with reverence the hem of the vestment worn by the image which stood over the deserted altar, and on the moment it crumbled in my hand like October the chaped was dedicated or why the cult had been withdrawn, and, though I sought it often, I never found my way again to this forgotten chapel.

Victoria's Canercom.

Since the infirmities of Queen Victoria made it necessary for her to use a walking stick she has been the 'ecipient of many canes. Her friends, relatives and subjects have seized upon every possible occasion to present her with a new cane. One entire room of her private suite is said to be stonked with these special gifts. Whenever she expresses her intention of attending a function of any kind her friends consider it fitting to send her another cane. Every anniversary she is forced to acknowledge a score or more of them. There are solid gold sticks, oilver sticks, exquisitely engraved: sticks that are a marvel of the carver's art and sticks that contain priceless jew-

Queen Victoria has leaned more heavily on her cane of late years She always places it against her chair, and when she rises it is the duty of the highest court official present to hand it to her. Her subjects have hoped in vain to see her use their gifts She has used only one cane, however, which has historic value, having been presented to King Charles II. by one of his court. It is of oak, and when the king used it the handle was of carved gold. The top has been changed recently. It now bears an idol which once graced the temples of an ill-fated Indian prince It is of ivory, with jewels .- Philadelphia inlaid

The first trophies of the remarkable battle at Manila to be received in Stockton, Cal., came to a flour company and are highly appreciated by the holders. They are two flour sacks taken from a Spanish arsenal at Manila after the fight. The sacks of flour were used as a barricade, and both of them showed the effect of the aim of the American gunners. The prizes were captured by a detachment of marines under Dr. M. H. Crawford, surgeon on the United States steamer Boston ,and a particular friend of Dr. M. S. Beede, a former resident of Sto-kton, but now United States consular surgeon at Hong Kong, to whom they were forwarded. Dr. Beede in turn sent the two sacks to the firm which originally sent them to ('hina, from where they were forwarded to Manila. Both sacks are powder burned in several places, and one of them has a hole through it about the size of that made by a six pounder. The sacks hore the regulation imprint of the flour company, and had the stamp of the United States consulate of Hong Kong on them, as each package or sack which passes the custom house there must be marked. The trophies are on exhibition at the local office of the flour company, and are attracting considerable attention. - San Francisco Chronicle.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.

AVERY'S JOKE ON JACKSON.

Young Andy's Devotion to "Becon's

Abridgment' Led to a Duel. None of Gen. Jackson's biographers give the details of his first duel, and he himself never cared to speak of the matter in later years; but some years ago a grand-daughter of Col. Waitstill Avery told me the full story.

Waitstill Avery was a Massachusetts man who went to North Carolina, carrying with him a letter of recommendation from no less a personage than Jonathan Edwards. He soon acquired reputation and induence, and in time became Attorney-General of the State. It was his custom to take students of law into his family, who became tutors of his children,

In 1784, when Andrew Jackson was but seventeen years old and ambitious to become a lawyer, he applied for this situation. The tradition is that he was refused because a daughter of Avery's took a dislike to his uncouth appear-

Young Jackson next applied to Spruce McCay, a lawyer in Salisbury, N. C., in whose office he was fitted for the Bar, and he shortly made his appearance in the courts. When Jackson was twenty-one years of age, he and Avery met in the trial of a case at Jonesboro, Tenn.

It was Jackson's habit to carry in his saddle bags a copy of "Bacon's Abridgment," and to make frequent appeals to it in his cases. This precious book was always carefully done up in coarse brown paper, such as grocers used before the neat paper bags of the present of this much-prized volume before a court was a very solemn function as performed by Jackson.

Now Avery had by this time dropped whatever of Puritan sedateness had commended him to Jonathan Edwards, and was uncommonly fond of a joke. He procured a piece of bacon just the size of the book, and while Jackson was addressing the court he slipped out the volume from its wrapping and substituted the bacon.

At length Jackson had occasion to appeal to Lord Bacon. It was an important case, and he would not trust to his memory. He would confound his opponent by reading from the book itself. While still talking he raised the bearskin flap of his saddle-bags. drew out the brown paper package, carefully untied the string, unfolded the paper with the decorous gravity of a priest handling the holy things of the altar, and then, without looking at what he held in his hand, exclaimed triumphantly: "We will now see what Bacon says!

The Court, Bar, jury and spectators were convulsed with laughter before Jackson saw the trick that had been played on him. Of course, he was furious. He snatched a pen, and on the blank leaf of a lawbook wrote a peremptory challenge, which he delivered then and there. He asked for no apology-nothing but blood would do. He commanded Avery to select a friend and arrange for a meeting at once.

Avery made no answer to this peremptory demand, thinking his peppery lina friend had seen the original, and steadily increasing. The revised estiin copying it had corrected the orthog-August 12, 1788.

Avery concluded to accept this challenge; and, so, in the dusk of the summer evening, the duel came off in a hollow north of Jonesboro, in the presence of the same crowd that had When the word was given, Jackson fired quickly, and his ball flicked Avery's ear, scratching it slightly

Tied fast to the railroad track, unwretch could hear in the distance one rumble of the approaching train! Nearer and nearer it came to where he lay-louder and louder grew the roar of its swift oncoming—the earth shook with its mighty rush! Colorado. The wailike Arapahoes are extinct, the Utes, the Uncompangres and the Navahoes remain on their reservations in Utah. Some twelve of fifteen years ago, at the White river agency, just north of the Roan mountains, an agent named Meeker, who cherished a wild idea that his Indians adored him, fell out with them, and was discovered at his back door with no scalp on the top of his head. His daughfer, Miss Josephine Meeker, was carried off by a buck whom she designated in her narrative as "the gallant Persune." A small party of troops dispatched to the agency, fell into an ambuscade. The men built a small corral of boulders, behind which they crouched to avoid the shots of the Indians, who occupied the surrounding heights. Their supply of rations was short, and the Indians used their Winchesters effectively. The beleaguered soldiers seemed to have no alternative but death or starvation.

But the secretary of war acted with vigor. Troops were gathered from Bridger, Laramie and Halleck, as well as Leavenworth, and were placed under the command of Colonel Wesley Merritt. "Old Wesley," said veterans, will come with a twirl." And so he did-tearing over brier and brake with mounted troopers and wagons full of Indian fighters. Still, the poor fellows in the corral were growing very hungry, and when a cap was lifted above day were invented. The unwrapping the boulders it had a hole in it before it could be drawn down. I will not undertake to describe their emotion my gaze upon them, for when they when one gray dawn the blast of a looked up and caught my eye those bugle rang through the morning air, and an old soldier shouted: "That's the night signal of the Fifth United States Cavalry. Readers who care for the rest of the story can get it from Chief Douglas, who is a life prisoner at

They sprang like tigers into the corral, with Indian diers ever drilled in this country fought bullets singing round their heads, and under "Extra Billy" Smith, twice govthrew their rations to their white com- ernor of Virginia. When they reached the fore the war, his charge to the governsummit the Indian fire was silenced. In the force whose lives were saved there was a young Irish recruit who used to tell the story in a racy style, and to wind up with the sentence: "And now, gentlemen, if you know ci any man who says he will not serve with a naygur, I'll ask you to introjuice me."—Leslie's Weekly.

A minister's widow tells this: "My husband," she said, "had brown eyes that turned deeply, darkly black when he was angry, and which danced with most miraculous merriment when he was amused. Naturally, in the course of a long life with him, I came to know the varying expression of those eyes pretty well. I used to watch his eyes when he was preaching to know how things were going with him and, incidentally, with the congregation. I remember once in the midst of a most earnest discourse to have seen him stop suddenly for the space of a minute, not more, his eyes growing strangely black, then brightening again with that irresistible twinkle, though the rest of his features remained quite grave throughout. As I said, it was only for a moment; then he resumed his sermon as

A Military Trick.

One of our German-American citizens related the following incident of the German revolution of 1848:

"We were short of men and had a large number of prisoners to look after. That did not worry us as long as we were not moving, but one day we had to make a forced march. The country through which we were to pass was hostile, and extreme watchfulness was necessary. We had few enough men as it was, and we knew that those prisoners were ready to make a dead run at

Recent advices from Cavite not only confirm the original story of the shameful doings of the German fleet in Manila told until now. They also show that to the present time, and that his qualities as a diplomat have been, if possible, underrated.

There is one straight line of duty for Republicans to pursue this fall, and that is to vote for the election of a congress that will uphold and sustain President McKinley in carrying out the policy which he may adopt towards disposing of questions which have arisen since the war with Spain, during which he has demonstrated an ability to successfully cope with such difficulties as may arise and a desire to serve the best interests of the American people.

The letter of thanks, good will and farewell issued to the American army in behalf of the Spanish soldiers in Cuba, besides being the expression of a knightly spirit which cannot fail to be appreciated by our men, shows that the Spanish mind, whatever may be its shortcomings in other directions, is not unresponsive to those acts of kindness and consideration which are the outcome of our American civilization, and that the silent teachings of freedom have not fallen on barren ground.

The Hon. James A. Rice, mayor of Canton, seems to have the distinction, so | life. far, of being the only candidate in the field for the nomination of governor next year. Mayor Rice was in the race before the convention that nominated Horace Chapman in Columbus a year ago, but he was evidently unaffected by his own failure at that time or by the discouragements which fell to the lot of "Plain Horace" later on. "If at first you don't succeed," etc., is an adage apparently well lived up to in Democratic circles.

It has not even been thought reply to the eight demands of the insurgent leader, as those originally sent are of a sufficiently broad and comprehensive character to meet the present and almost any possible future emergency. PUBLIC LIBRARY NEWS.

Four Thousand Volumes Ready—Prospect for Opening.

The work of cataloguing the books at the McClymonds Public Library is going rapidly forward, over four thousand volumes being now ready for the shelves. The process of cataloguing has already been described in THE INDEPENDENT, and it will be remembered that each book must be classified, entered in the accession or library book, and have four labels. marked with its book, class and accession number, and one pocket for the charging system, pasted into it before it is ready to be loaned out. For each book, also, there must be written one or more catalogue cards, one shelf list card and one book card for the charging system. Besides this, the checking of the bills for the five thousand volumes, which have already arrived, has been no small task, and it can easily be seen that there has been no unreasonable delay in getting the library ready for public use. The book stacks are promised to be in position by September 1, but it is not at all likely that the library can be opened before the first of January as the trustees intend to purchase in the neighborhood of 10,000 volumes. The bindings as a rule are in the best cloth. No money has been spent on editions de luxe, but the public are assured of well bound and well printed editions. As the library takes form, it is seen that in addition to the well selected list of fiction, which is always necessary to a well appointed public and popular library, there are many valuable works for serious study and research, so that the shelves will be useful to those who desire to pursue certain lines of study as well as for readers who have lighter literary be desired for the occasion. It is an old tastes. Up to the present time nearly three hundred books have been donated to the library.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE® ___.

(A Monologue.) Ah, here you are at last, my dear. I have been looking for you everywhere for the last twenty minutes—that is, big crush of people, eh? You are doing the honors nicely, little woman, and I'm the faintest doubt about your being tirgorous talk of a little country girl's dread of holding her own in the swagger of New York.

Society, you see, little woman, is a good deal like the sheep out on the dear old New Hampshire farm; following fence or wander round the field nibbling into the flock and then, whether you jump the fences or nibble the daisies, it's all right and proper. Of course, tco. there are black sheep that you have to deal carefully with, and sometimes wolves get into the fold, and those you have to drive out, or else trap them and draw their teeth.

By the by, I thought I caught a glimpse of you just now going into the conservatory with young Jack Farrington. "Handsome Jack" they call him, and well they may, for he certainly is a good-looking fellow. How did he get here, I wonder? Oh, came as Mrs de Haven's escort, did he? That's her stronghold, they tell me-I mean sheltering poor, unhappy young husbands under her expansive wings.

Didn't know he was married. Oh. Lord bless you, yes, though I must say he doesn't make a parade of his wife, Lily Berry, that used to be. Dear me, what a lovely girl she was when he married her! Only five years ago, too, and last week when she came into the office to see us-my brother Henry is her god-father: you know-she was looking so miserably thin and wan and shabby that I declare I hardly recognized her. I'm sure I don't wonder that such a jolly, good-looking chap as Farrington is don't care to be seen with such a faded attachment as that at his

I asked her if she did not want to come up here to-night, but she said no. because the dress she had on was the only one she possessed. So I didn't press the matter, and didn't ask either of them. But she's coming up to-morrow, little woman, to make your acquaintance, and I want you to try to like her and be kind to her.

Indeed you will? Why to be sure. dear. I didn't doubt it for an instant. Well, well, why, here's Farrington now. Hullo, Jack; you know my wife, I believe? We were just talking of you.

Handsome as ever, I see. Dear me, dear me, why can't we be all and always young and handsome! What a lovely hyacinth that is you have in your coat! It's the first I've seen for the season. But there, you always did have a passion for first blossoms. From the de Haven hothouse, is it? Well, I might have guessed that, I don't understand, by the by, why the hyacinth is not just as good a loving tell-tale as the marguerite. Let me see now. Stand still there, Jack. "She loves me, loves me not, loves me, loves me not-um-um." I knew it. It ends, "She loves me." Hold on, though. There's a blossom missing here! And, by George, here is just the missing flower in my wife's hair! It must have got caught there when you two were walking through the conservatory just now

And look here, if my wife handed you this, it would end the tale with "She loves me not." But that's too terribly prosaic to think of.

I beg your pardon, dear. Oh, you do wish to hand it back? Well, well, I say again that's awfully unpoetical But if you want to wind up the story that way, why, I can't help it, can I, Jack? Take it, my boy. And we're so sorry you have to go at once, and so early, too. But good-night if you must leave the house. Or good-by, rather, for I suppose we shan't see you again for quite a long time. There!

And now, little woman, run away to your guests, or they'll be thinking that your old husband is so commonplace or so exacting as to claim some of your attention in his own house. You hate it all? Treason and rank treachery to society! Run along, run along, little woman, and have a good

A Queer Mail.

The inhabitants of the small group of Islands situated on the south of Iceland possess a very curious method of communication in their so-called "bottle post." When the wind blows from the south and one of the islanders wishes to communicate with the mainland, he puts his letters into a well-corked bottle, and to insure their delivery he encloses at the same time a plug of twist tobacco or a cigar. The vind speedily impels the bottle to the shore of the mother island, where people are generally on the lookout, who are willing to deliver the contents of the bottle in return for the enclosed remuneration.

An Engineering Feat. Man is very small, and the earth very large, but size does not count when matter competes with brains. Modern engineering has reached such a point of perfection that the impossible continually recedes before it Fur instance, the following remarkable feat has been accomplished near San Francisco, as we learn from the Chicago Railway Review:

A great section of mountain was recently torn off by ten thousand pounds of powder, lifted several feet straight up, and then pushed bodily forward forty or fifty feet, trembling over the gorge below the dam, and then falling with an awful roar one hundred and twenty-five feet, to remain bereafter for all time as the bulwark of the great dam being built to impound water for the city of San Francisco.

For two months or more preparations had been made for the monster blast, in common with anothe blast that is nearly ready. The plan was to cut tunnels into the side of the mountain at various pointss above the bed of the creek, and to place in these tunnels, first great stores of black powder, which ignites more slowly than | night we gave him half a day's work. giant powder, and, therefore, has more pushing power and less shattering effect. On the surface and in places through the mountain side were placed big deposits of giant powder for the purpose of shattering the mass and lifting it up.

According to the plans, the black powder, when it exploded, would hurl freshly shaved!" the mass straight forward, making a bridge of granite across the gorge, and blocking the stream. The plans were carried out with the greatest care, and with a successful result. When the dust cleared away, it was found that the blast had dislodged a mass of rock four hundred feet up and down stream and an average of sixty feet in height, completely bridging the canon. The engineers estimated that the amount to put him in an asylum." dislodged weighed about one hundred and fifty thousand tons The rock was thrown exactly as the engineers had planned.

Exercising a Demon.

Perhaps the most recent instance of this survival of mediaevalism in one of the chief centres of modern civilization and scientific culture occurred on March 15, 1897, at Munich Bavaria, where a Catholic priest of St Benedict's church solemnly went through the ceremony of exorcising a demon that haunted a house at 24 Park street in that city. It seems that the evil spirit had disturbed the pious inmates of the dwelling by groaning, sighing and making such a racket generally that it was impossible for them to sleep, and was seen one night by a child passing through the room in the disguise of an old woman dressed in black, evidently a urvival of the race of ugly and ill-starved hags who have drawn. played such a melancholy part in the tragic annals of witchcraft On receiving this information the parish priest | flower growing. At one time they were and his acolytes went at once to the house with aspergil! and censers to expel the infernal intruder by the supernal power inherent in holy water and consecrated incense. The event caused considerable sensation in the Bavarian capital -- Appleton's Popular Science Monthly.

"Do you want Liberty madam?" She was a pretty, demure looking little woman, but the temptation was not to be resisted. Apparently oblivious of her surroundings and the fact that the man's question had directed general attention to her, she stood up in the car, bent forward slightly and answered:

"Yes, give me liberty or give me

THE GREAT DESERT.

Power of the Winds on That Barren Waste

With a feeling that my words will carry little weight with those who think otherwise, I venture to suggest that the Sahara is not exactly what it is commonly assumed to be, and yet in many ways it is not very different. Its first sands, when approached from the side of El-Kantara, are giant rocks, burned brown and red under the glow of the southern sun, standing out in wild pinnacles from the gently undulating surface. This is not the desert that is ordinarily pictured by the mind -that flat, endless expanse which fades off unmoved and unbroken to the limits of vision-but it is the desert, nevertheless, just as much as the mountain snows of the far north are a part of the great arctic "sea of ice." Beyond, however. is the great plain itself, its swelling undulations hardly relieving to the eye the appearance of absolute flatness which the picture offers.

The truth is, the Sahara presents itself in a double aspect, that of the flat and sandy plain and that of the recky ridge or mountain, the Hammada. It is the Hammada that is more particularly dreaded by the caravans, for among their wind swept crags there are few oases, and only the blowing sands and a relentless sun are the companions of the footsore pilgrim. In many parts of the flat desert traveling is moderately easy, for over long distances the surface has become coated into a hard, slimy crust-a solid basement rock, one may call it. Along our route of travel there were no sand dunes of any magnitude. the highest perhaps scarcely exceeding 15 or 20 feet, but I was informed by the distinguished French explorer, M. Foureaud, who was then stopping at Biskra, that beyond Tuggurt they rise to the prodigious height of from 1,200 to 1,400 feet. This speaks even more eloquently for the power of the winds than do the high tossed sands of coral islands.-Popular Science Monthly.

An Island of Flowers.

The Scilly islands may very justly be termed flower islands, for a large part of their surface is given up to the cultivation of flowers, and the great majority of their people spend their lives in attending to the plants, from which all the wealth of the islands is

The inhabitants have had other occupations before they settled down to wreckers, and at a later period they went into a more legitimate business and devoted themselves to the raising of early potatoes. There was money to be made out of them, and the islands prospered until prosperity bore its usual fruit in the shape of competition. The Channel islanders took to growing potatoes, and the potato trade of the Scilly islands was killed. Thereupon the islanders betook themselves to flower growing, giving the greater part of their attention to the narcissi. In St. Mary's alone nearly a quarter of the cultivated area of the island is devoted

The Honeymoon Train.

By such a name does the 5:30 p. m. train from Sydney to the Blue mountains go by. The Blue mountains are to Australia what Switzerland is to England, the place where "the fashionables" go to find "coolth" throughout the summer months.

It is also the haunt of the newly married, and the train hardly leaves one day a week without having several happy couples on board—hence its name.

To railway men it is known as "the fish train," the driver's name being Herring, that of the fireman Pike, while the guard has that of the lowly but honest Cockle.-London Standard.

August Brackmann Has a Close Call on Saturday.

DRAGGEDBY A W. & L. E. COAL CAR.

Fortunately the Brakes Were on, Thus Preventing the Wheels From Passing Over Mr. Brackmann's Body-Face and Shoulders Horribly Cut.

August Brackmann, who resides at the corner of Wood and Walnut streets, is suffering from a hundred cuts and bruises on every part of his body, but his greatest agony is the thought that for many weeks he will be unable to provide the necessaries for his wife and five little children. Mr. Brackmann is a section But gave to God and country all he had hand, employed on the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway. `At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon he was walking on one of the tracks of the local yards. He was going for water Suddenly a coal car dashed down the tracks. It had been given a start by an engine, and was running at a fast rate of speed. Brackmann did not see it, and the brakeman on the car did not notice Brackmann in time to warn

The brakes had been applied to the wheels and consequently they were not revolving when the car struck Brackmann. The latter was thrown across one of the rails and the sliding wheels dragged him for a distance of 75 yards, his face striking the edge of every tie, while his arms were twisted and doubled under him and his body was cut and scratched by the stones and cinders of the roadbed. His left arm was broken, and the right was so horribly mangled that it was feared it would have to be amputated. Dr. Hardy, however, thinks and face the towers. AT CAMP MILITARY. The Band Boys Have a Flag-Raising at Chippews.

CAMP MILITARY, CHIPPEWA LAKE, Aug. 21.

Sunday morning dawned bright and beautiful and the only thing to mar the occasion was that after the railroad had promised transportation to the band ble. The workmen pound and forge they refused it and we had to buy away, hammering, twisting and bendtickets, but we have some money left. Joe Ess refused to leave his little cot, or else he was tied, as he did not appear at the depot at 6 a. m., when the train of the dangerous position in which they

After dinner we proceeded to our flag staff, and produced an elegant flag, purchased by the band's popular contribution. Thomas Brown acted as chairman of the day.

In the evening we escorted our visitors to the train, with such airs, as, "Home, Sweet Home," "Girl I left Behind Me," "Auld Lang Syne."

Poor Louis Eisenbrei, jr., did not enjoy the day at all. He complained of sick headache, but, we are told, it was heart-ache, as his girl missed the train in the morning.

Sol Bailus arrived at 5 p. m. meeting his girl at the station who had preceded by a delegation of boys and carried to special public. No other audience is ever since he arrived and has used up all the paper he can find.

Our dinner yesterday was pronounced by our guests to be equal to any served at any hotel in Stark county. It was prepared by Cook Lloyd, who has become a prime favorite.

Mrs. Lee and daughter drove down with Mr. and Mrs. Robinson from Medina and spent the day with us.

The band was given three hearty cheers after their concert, something that never happens at home, but the boys would appreciate it.

Billy Ertle was in bathing again yesterday. This is an exciting event, as the water rises three feet in the lake when he does. He is too heavy to sink and can swim entirely around the lake.

The little souvenir flags that were dropped when our flag was unfurled bore the following inscription: "Camp Military Flag Raising, Aug 21, 1898." They were eagerly sought, most of them going to Cleveland on the hats of excur

TOILERS OF THE AIR.

How the Work on a Suspension Bridge Is Done.

The workmen on the cables follow closely after the builders of the iron roadway. These men are engaged in more perilous employment, if anything, than the former. They climb nimbly np to the very summit of the huge towers, and then without flinching proceed to descend the inclined cables. It makes the spectators below tremble for them, so dangerous is the descent, but the workmen have no fear, else they would be unfitted for the duty required of them. After sliding down the cable a dozen feet, they stop and turn around the derrick slowly swing out to them the end of a cable about three inches in diameter. Another man carries out to them by means of a small hand pulley and rope a redhot band of steel, which the cable workers seize with their, pinchers and clasp around the large cable on which they are resting. Then while the steel is still hot and malleable, the small cable, with its end secured in a thick bolt of steel, is brought into position, and the end welded into the redhot steel band encircling the main caing the metal before it cools off. The welding must be done rapidly, and the workmen have no time to stop and think of the body with violent exertion. When this cable is forged into its place, the workmen take a few moments of rest, and then slide down to the next joint, where the same operation is repeated. Cable after cable is attached in this way until there is a regular tangle But there is order in this colossal spider web such as never existed in the home of the insect that weaves the webs in our homes and woods. Gradually one part of the bridge after another is finished, and when the "false work" of scaffolds is removed the structure stands out in all the beauty of its finished state.

The bridge builders must not only be skilled in their work, but they must have the hardihood and daring of the sailor, for most of their work is performed at an altitude higher than the topmast of any sailing vessel. They labor in all kinds of weather-when the sun is pouring down its torrid rays in midsummer or when the mercury registers zero in winter.

To them their dizzy height is no more than the 15 or 20 feet are to the ordinary carpenter or house painter. They seldom use ladders. They would be constantly in the way. As he awoke the opposite occurred, proving that the blood left the head in the one condition and returned to it in the other.

OMENS ON WARSHIPS.

SUPERSTITIONS WHICH GOVERN OLD SALTS OF THE NAVY.

Boodoos and Spells Which May Work All Sorts of Evils on Board and Which Must Be Carefully Guarded Against The Tattooing Habit.

The most picturesque superstitions of the seas are those which govern a modern man-o'-war. Every old salt in the navy believes in boodoos and spells which may work all sorts of evils on his ship and must be carefully guarded against.

The powers of a ship's hoodoos commence before the ship has entered the water. It is a generally accepted superstition that if the first blow which is struck the keel brings sparks the ship is destined to suffer from a raking fire from the enemy.

piece of wood and imbedding it in the stronger. prow for good luck is, of course, impossible in the case of steel ships, though it is considered lucky to have a piece of stolen wood on board. Another old superstition is satisfied by placing a silver coin in some crevice of the fighting top of the mainmast or and when the men are on guard. some place below decks where it touches the steel mast. Originally it was a verv common custom to imbed a silver coin, wooden steps near the mast.

Figureheads have been in high favor with sailors from remote antiquity. Originally they were carved to represent some god or saint. Even today a sailor would besitate to sail on an ironclad without such protection.

The ceremony of launching a ship is merely a concession to an old superstition. The various formalities of ship christening have been followed with little variation for centuries.

In the early days of shipbuilding it was the custom for the captain and the crew to eat their first meal stowed away in the mold loft. Their meal invariably consisted of eggs and sulphur. From this custom has come the present day practice of providing cakes and wine for the crew. And the old libation which the priests used to pour over the prow of the ship as she slipped into the water has been replaced by the breaking of a bottle of champagne.

The modern man-of-war dashes into the water with flags waving from every masthead. In order to gratify this old superstition it has been necessary to expend hundreds of dollars for the christening of a single ship. But no one begrudges this extravagance. In a way it is necessary.

The good or ill luck of certain days is still a belief among the sailors. Friday is a day of ill omen, and Sunday is usually a lucky day.

they swing their arms and upper part A superstition about women is a relic of the old belief in witchcraft. It is thought that a woman by throwing sand in the air on shipboard can produce violent storms. Not many years ago some women who traveled on English warships were tortured during a storm to make them quiet the waves.

These barbaric beliefs, however, are partially compensated by the superstition which sailors have held for centu ries that beautiful children bring a blessing to a ship. The Neck was a handsome boy with golden curls. It is said that he is always accompanied by a black lamb and carries with him a golden harp. Our old salts have especial confidence in a ship which is christened by a child.

The average sailor is superstitious about the ringing of the ship's bells. In olden times the bells were blessed before they were used. At present, if a mistake is made in striking the bour, the sailors insist that the bells at once be struck backwards to break the spell, and if by any chance the wind should catch the bells and swing them all the way around, or if they strike nine bells, it is believed that it will be the last of that ship.

All good warships go to the "shores of Fiddler's Green" as a final resting place. Just where this mythical harbor is situated no geographer has yet decided. It is in every way the antithesis of "Davy Jones' locker." A warship which goes down in battle with her fording you ease and comfort at the flags flying, as occurred several times during the civil war, goes to "Fiddler's

Green. ' The tattooing habit is, of course, very common in the navy. It is believed that an arm or a leg decorated with the design of a gun or a sword or some such design will never be lost in battle .-San Francisco Call.

STORIES OF RELIEF.

Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

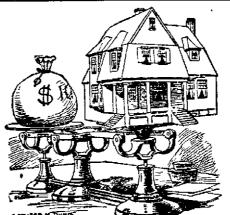

Mrs. John Williams, Englishtown, N. J., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-I cannot begin to tell you how I suffered before taking your remedies. I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without falling. I had womb trouble and such a bearing-down feeling; also suffered with my back and limbs, pain in womb, inflammation of the bladder, piles and indigestion. Before I had taken one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great deal better, and after taking two and onehalf bottles and half a box of your Liver Pills I was cured. If more would take your medicine they would not have to suffer so much."

Mrs. Joseph Peterson, 513 East St., Warren, Pa., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-- I have suffered with womb trouble over fifteen years. I had inflammation, enlargement and displacement of the womb. I had the backache constantly, also headache, and was so dizzy. I had heart trouble, it seemed as though my heart was in my throat at times choking me. I could not walk around and I could not lie down, for then my heart would beat so fast I would feel as though I was smothering. I had to sit up in bed nights in order to breathe. CHRONIC DISEASES.

CHRONIC DISEASES.

The Doctor treats no acute diseases, but makes a specialty of chronic and long-standing diseases. Cases given up by other doctors and pronounced incurable, he most desires to see. Br. Kutchin has treated over 12,000 cases in Ohio in the last two years, many of which had been given up as incurable, some to be Blind, others Deaf, and a Large Number to be Invalds for Life. Now they see and Hear, and many aro on the high road to Health.

The Doctor is surrounded with a fine collection of instruments for examining and treating all chronic diseases of the Head, Face, Eye, Ear, Throat, Heart, Lungs, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Skin, Brain and Nerrous System, Cancers, Tumors, Piles, Swellings, Oid Sores, Fics, Pannlysis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gout, Sick Headache, Debility, Depression of Spirits, Diseases of Children, Hereditary Diseases, etc., etc., and, in fact, all long-standing and chronic diseases. All surgical operations performed.

EXAMINATIONS FREE TO ALL. Whenever it is known that Dr. Kutchin is stopping at a place, crowds gather to consult him, and it is not to be wondered at when it is remembered that in diagnosting a disease he never asks a question, but describes the different diseases better than the sick can themselvos. It is a wonderful gift for anyone to possess, and Dr. Kutchin's diagnostic powers have created wonder throughout the country.

A LIFE OF EXPERIENCE.

Latest Discoveries and Improvements. Dr. Kutchin has received the most approved instruction in Analytical and Microscopical Examinations of the Blood, Urine, etc., which are now considered indispensable to a correct diagnosis in many diseases. There are many diseases which physicians in common practice do not usually treat, and are, therefore, seldom prepared with necessary and cost-ly outfit to examine correctly, or treat with success; such cases, therefore, would do well to call at once and learn their true condition, and whether the doors of Hope are yet open, or forever closed against them.

FACTS FOR MEN OF ALL AGES.

By reason of fulse modesty the youth of our land are kept in ignorance of the ruinous results which certain solitary indiscrect practices produce. These vices when persisted in eventually undermine the constitution inducing nervous debility and premature decay. Br. Katchin has for meny years enjoyed the distinction of being the most successful and celebrated specialist for the treatment and cure of these meetions. You may consult him with complete confidence. Of all the maladies that afflictmankind there is probably none about which physicians in general practice know so little.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

Many diseases are so deceptive that hundreds of persons have them before they even suspect it. They know they are not well, but are perfectly ignorant of the deadly fangs which are fastering upon them, and must, sconer or later, certainly destroy them, unless rescued by a skillful hand. Are you affisted? Your case may now be perfectly curable, but Remember, every moment of neglect brings you nearer its incurable stages, when, perhaps, the most skillful physician can render you no assistance. The present is ours, the future may be Too Late.

Either of the Organs Must Be Present Bither in the Same or in Different Flowers in Order That the Pinuts May Be Fruitful.

All plant seeds are produced from flowers. The flower usually contains two sets of organs—the sexual and the enveloping. Sometimes the latter are partially or wholly wanting, but the sexual organs-the stamens and pistils -must be present either in the same or in different flowers in order that the plant may be fruitful. The envelopes usually consist of two sets or whoris. and are shown in Fig. 2, at a, b. The pistil consists of the ovary at the base, the style and stigma at the end (Fig. 2, e, f, g). The stigma is the receptive surface on which the pollen falls, and is connected with the ovary by the style. In Indian corn the silks are the styles. The stamens or male organs are located between the pistil and the envelopes. (Fig. 1, d; Fig. 2, d). A stamen consists of a stalk or filament and an anther. The anther produces the pollen, the fertilizing element, seen in a mass of dust usually of yellow color, and consists of a countless number of pollen grains. When ripe the anthers open and the poller is exposed, to be carried away either by the wind or by insects or other animals.

In the cabbage family arrangements are such that self-fertilization can take place if cross-fertilization fails. In cabbage blossom honey is secreted at the bottom of the corolla tube. An insect sucking the honey would touch the stigma and the anther of one of the short stamens. At the next flower the pollen thus collected would most likely be deposited on the stigma. In case cross-fertilization fails the long stamens bend over and pollinatae the stigma. It is known that cross-fertilization does frequently occur, by the difficulty of keeping varieties of cabbage, turnips, etc., from mixing. In pumpkins, squashes, cucumbers, and melons, the male flowers appear first, followed by the female (Figs. 6 and 7). Here cross-fertilization is inevitable, and mixing invariably occurs when several varieties of a species are grown near one another. The grasses, corn, wheat, oats, barley, etc., having flowers without odor, nectar or conspicuous color, do noto attract insects and are fertilized by the wind.

As has already been said, the purity, as well as the vigor, of a variety depends upon the fertilization of the seed. While cross-fertilization has been clearorous plants, and therefore a benefit summarized below. so far as the life of the species is concerned, there are other considerations of vital importance to the seed-grower. The first of these is puity of variety. No matter how well the seed germinates, nor how vigorous the plants, if they are not of the variety wanted the crop is at best a partial failure. While crossing between plants of the same variety is beneficial—the more so if their ancestors were not grown under the vaieties of a species should, as a thoroughly pulverized. rule, be guarded against. Intelligent; crossing of varieties, or of species even, the lost of well-established types.

CULTURE OF SUGAR BEET,

Attention.

Numerous attempts to establish beed sugar factories in America have failed, and the principal cause of failure has rather disappointing. Net results was a been stated to be the inability to secure a sufficient supply of beets. The culture of the sugar beet involves different methods from those pursued with ordinary farm crops, and in order that a factory may be successfully started in any neighborhood the farmers of that vicinity should have had some pre- oxehange: xious experience in the culture of this

Since the sugar beet is a very valuable stock food and is cultivated by many farmers for this purpose alone. the experience necessary to its successful culture may be obtained without loss, though no sugar factory should ever be located in the neighborhood; and in view of the probable development of the beet sugar industry in Northern Ohlo the Experiment Station St. Paul 1124 1184 recommends to the farmers of that Western Union 94% 94% region that they begin immediately to get the practical experience necessary to the successful management of this

Boiled Down.

Boiling down what has been said (on breeding pedigree plants) we have the following propositions: 1. Like begets like in plants as well as in animals. 2. That two scrubs whether of animals or plants cannot beget a thoroughbred; that the weakness or disease of the mother plant is found in its runners which form the new plants and impair their fruiting ability. 3. Only plants of absolute perfection should be taken for purposes of propagating. By annually throwing out all weaklings we secure perfect health, great uniformity in size, quality and fruiting vigor. 4. That unrestricted pollen bearing in the male plant produces impotency and is the leading cause of failure in developing fruit.

5. That a plant taken from a pedigree plant possesses its good qualities in as high degree as the offspring of thoroughbred animals.

6. That having attained this high degree of fruiting power we can keep it up by taking all plants from a propremoving blossoms before they weaken themselves by heavy secretions of

7. That after a field has produced a heavy crop of berries its frucing vigor is so impaired that plants should never be taken from it to start a new bed.-R. M. Kellogg in Plant Catalogue.

Treatment for Peach Borers.

Prof. Slingerland in a recent address has this to say: "The greatest trouble with most of the washes recommended for borers is that they do not remain long enough as a complete coating. The proper time to apply washes for the peach borer in the latitude of Cen-"al New York is about July 1st; and they should retain their effectiveness attracted by color and odor While col- her food to-morrow. We hope that our extensive experiment will result easier method of combating the peach borer than digging it out; but even though we fail in this, we shall feel renaid for our work if we can show conclusively that many of the things so often recommended are worthless and should not be applied. At present we can only say that the digging out" process is the surest, easiest and most practicable method we can recommend. I find that the best time to dig out the borers is in the latter part of June, in our latitude. If it is attempted much earlier than this in the spring, or later in the fall, the borers are so small that many are missed. On thorough digging out in June, when they are about three-fourths grown and easily found. will be more effective than both a spring and a fall examination together."--Fruit.
